5 TIPS FOR COMMUNICATING

1. Don’t talk too loudly or yell.
2. Don’t be offended if they don’t make eye contact.
3. Don’t talk too fast.
4. Don’t speak down to them or use a baby voice. Treat them with respect.
5. Pillow can help you learn your lines faster. (PIRCST)

DID YOU KNOW?

Cedar’s brother Ben has autism spectrum disorder (ASD), a developmental disability that can cause social, communicative, and behavioral challenges.

5 TIPS FOR COMMUNICATING WITH PEOPLE WITH ASD:

1. Don’t talk too loudly or yell.
2. Don’t touch them without their permission.
3. Don’t be offended if they don’t make eye contact.
4. Don’t speak down to them or use a baby voice. Treat them with respect.
5. Educate yourself so you can build awareness, acceptance, and understanding. You can find a list of resources at uvu.edu/autism.

THE REAL SUMMERLOST FESTIVAL

The Summerlost Festival is inspired by the Utah Shakespeare Festival, founded in 1961 by Fred C. Adams, assistant professor of theatre arts at SUU in Cedar City. The first season consisted of two-week runs of three shows—Hamlet, The Taming of the Shrew, and The Merchant of Venice. In 1977 the Adams Memorial Shakespearean Theatre was built as a performing space for the Festival and for four decades patrons enjoyed its outdoor atmosphere reminiscent of Shakespeare’s Globe Theatre in London. The Festival has grown to a year-round operation which produces eight or nine plays each season. For more information, visit bard.org.

SUPERSTITION SCRAMBLE

Some say that the Summerlost Festival is haunted by the ghost of famous actress Lizette Chamberlain. Can you unscramble the missing word to complete these superstitions?

It’s bad luck to say “good luck” to an actor—instead, say “ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ ” (TIHLG).

Never call Shakespeare’s play “ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ ” (RBKAE).
